

White House Counsel Judge Alberto R. Gonzales
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

May 29, 2002

Dear Judge Gonzales,

Thank you so much for meeting with us and for listening to our concerns. The May 23rd session we had with you and Associate Counsel Brett Kavanaugh was a positive one. During the meeting we stressed a half-dozen points in the meeting, which I would like to reiterate here. Those points are:

1. We are pleased that after reviewing some 68,000 pages of P-5 material in the Reagan papers the White House released all but a small fraction, withholding only 155 pages which may yet be released. We believe this underscores the professionalism and good judgment of the archivists at the Reagan Library and the representatives of the former President Reagan and hope this is a sign that future releases will be as comprehensive. The National Archives and the presidential libraries have substantial mechanisms to protect sensitive information falling into the categories of National Security and privacy claims. They were able to effectively use them in their reviews of the Reagan papers
2. Speed in the release of the papers remains a crucial issue for us. As we said in the meeting, we believe it is important that the 90-day review period provided for by the administration be honored. With the enormous responsibility those in the Counsel's Office have for judicial nominations, ethics rules, vetting of all nominees, executive orders, and reviews of legislation, it is understandable that lawyers working there would find it difficult to get through such a large volume of material. Nevertheless, it is important that the Counsel's Office consider the other side: Waiting indefinitely for papers to be released - even if they are eventually released - can have the same effect as outright censorship. Vanderbilt University professor Hugh Davis Graham died before the papers he was seeking were released, even though he had requested them several years earlier. The papers now under review were ready for release in January 2001 having gone through reviews by the Reagan representatives and archivists working at the library. It has been 60 days since the 155 pages have been under review at the White House level and almost two years since they first were reviewed by the Reagan representatives and library archivists.
3. The delegation of authority to a family member to review papers for executive privilege claim is especially problematic for all of us. Our view - and the entire point of the Presidential Records Act - is that the papers of the President are public papers and to remain as such. They should stay in public hands for the review process and have a chain of custody that is kept for each document under review. Those reviewing papers for executive privilege claims should probably be public officials, preferably the Archivist of the United States. Family members of those presidents having Deed of Gift libraries have had a history of family disagreements about papers. Moreover, the goal of the family members is often - and quite understandably - to protect the good name and reputation as well as their own image of the former President and not to provide the record of administration actions and decision making to historians, scholars, journalists, or even the American public.

4. We also feel strongly that both the Presidential Records Act and recent tradition affords the Archivist a higher position than is contemplated by Executive Order 13233. Through it, the Archivist becomes just one more administration official. We submit that the legislation requiring the President to notify Congress the reasons for the Archivist's dismissal - and existing custom - hold that the Archivist is much more than that. The Archivist is the person responsible for the integrity of the records process, including maintaining and reviewing records. The job's very description contemplates that the Archivist is someone to be trusted and someone whose motives are not political. Again, we believe that the current review process affirms the effectiveness and honorable nature of the work done by library archivists.

5. We are convinced that by altering the burden of litigation by making scholars, rather than the former President, go to court over disputed documents will have the practical effect of weakening the judicial review process. We understand that the Administration patterned this language after existing Freedom of Information Act procedures, but most scholars pay their own way for research and few will be able to afford to hire a lawyer to contest assertions of executive privilege in court. And even if they could, publishing deadlines (even for scholarly books) can hardly accommodate the glacier-like pace of federal court litigation. In addition, we believe it is probably not desirable to have former presidents suing current presidents as the order provides. We see nothing wrong with a former President having to go to court to challenge a decision of the Archivist.

6. Finally, this brings us to a related concern: the executive order contemplates a sitting President deferring to the executive privilege claims of a former President. We suggest that this is backwards, that it is the currently elected President who has the most current understanding of what is privileged, as well as the higher constitutional prerogatives and responsibilities.

Again, thank you meeting with us and for being so receptive to our concerns. We look forward to continuing our discussion in future sessions with you and with Brett Kavanaugh.

Warm Wishes,

Martha Joynt Kumar
