

My name is Rachel, I'm 40 years old and have spent over half my life battling addiction. In theory, fentanyl test strips are a wonderful tool. However from my experience, people in full blown addiction don't utilize the test strips. There's several reasons for this.....

We truly believe we'll never be poisoned,

We need our drug of choice THEN not in 5-10 minutes after testing it first,

We don't want to "lose" any amount of our product to testing,

More than likely we're hiding our habit and taking the time to test heightens our chances of getting caught,

In reality I could go on and on with our "excuses" but the truth of the matter is..... WE NEED CHANGE!!!

Thank you
